

20/21 NOVEMBER 2016

image from http://img.thrfun.com/img/019/514/substituting_marshmallows_for_marshmallow_cream_s3.jpg

Greetings, Wise Fools—

Because one week each year marshmallows are reclassified as vegetables, here's how we'll roll today:

1. WEDGE—We have spent some time of late considering the activities we enjoy for recreation, whether shooting rats or whatever. For roughly ten minutes, write about an activity in which you are forced to participate but really, really do not enjoy. Wallow in your description of the activity and the way in which participation makes you feel. Try to provide vivid external multisensory imagery while also offering your internal feelings and sensations, just like Holden Caulfield.

2. Previewing the Semester Exam

3. Prewriting an Exegesis—During our next class meeting, we will write an in-class exegetical essay as a practice for our semester exam. Today we will use a document entitled “Literary Analysis Prewriting Worksheet,” which is posted to our Moodle page.

Tappa! Tappa! Tappa!—
Mr Leo

Homework:

- Complete your “Literary Analysis Prewriting Worksheet” as a digital document.
- Upload your “Literary Analysis Prewriting Worksheet” to Turnitin.com prior to the start of our next class.