

27 & 28 November 2016

© MARK ANDERSON

WWW.ANDERTOONS.COM

image from <http://d1mpb3f4gg7nrb.cloudfront.net/img/toons/cartoon6378.png>

Greetings, Wise Fools—

Well, let's be honest: June is a long way off... but DECEMBER is right around the corner! And that means that winter break is not very far away!

Here's how we'll roll today:

1. mockPaper 1—We'll anticipate our semester exam by practicing this skill set for the entire period, using "Shooting Rats at the Bibb County Dump," a free verse poem by David Bottoms, as our primary text.

Go, go, go!—

Mr Leo

Homework:

1. Print a hard copy of the Alienation Memoir, the narrative you submitted much earlier in the semester. Now that you cannot remember that essay very clearly, you will be able to look at it with a “colder eye.”

2. Open a document posted to the Moodle page called “Alienation Memoir Self-Assessment Template.”

3. Follow the instructions on that handout. When you are done, you will have produced

A. a heavily hand-marked hard copy of your Alienation Memoir

B. a digital copy of the “Alienation Memoir Self-Assessment Template” that has been altered to

i. include highlighting that indicates which description in each assessment category (i-viii) matches your Alienation Memoir

ii. include 5 complete-sentence answers to the prompt in Section B.

4. Bring your annotated hard copy of the Alienation Memoir and a digital copy of the Alienation Memoir Self-Assessment to class.