

22/23 MARCH 2017

Mark Twain

From the George Eastman House Still Photograph Archive;
Full Catalog Record :79:4019:0026

Image from <http://blog.eastmanhouse.org/wp-content/uploads/2010/11/Twain-IMG40475-392x454.jpg>

Greetings, AmLit Scholars—

It's time we lit out into the class agenda. Please place your copy of The Great American Novel where I can check your active reading on chapters XIX-XXIII. Open to page 1250, please!

Here's how we'll roll today:

1. WEDGE— Let's focus our attention on Huck by considering ourselves! By now you've noticed that Huck's role in much of the novel is that of passive observer/traveler.

For roughly ten minutes, write about a time when you were traveling away from home during which you witnessed peculiar local behaviors that surprised you. As you draft, try to provide specific exposition details and the vivid multisensory imagery that might allow an audience of ignorant animals to experience the events vicariously!

2. Quiz!

3. Large Group Discussion

Tappa! Tappa! Tappa!--
Mr Leo

Homework:

1. Actively read chapters XXIV-XXVIII in Adventures of Huckleberry Finn.
2. For 50 points of extra credit, perhaps more, attend at least one of this weekend's performances of Xanadu! Please note that you will be asked to provide evidence of your attendance!